Arts - Key Priorities

Overview

The goal of the Department's Arts Division is to promote and develop Ireland's artistic and creative strengths at home and abroad and to maximise their societal, economic and reputational value for the country. The Arts Division has 82 staff, 44 of whom are assigned to the National Archives with the remaining 38 working in four Business Units:

Art, Film and Investment:	13 staff	PO: Mary Nash
Cultural Policy and Institutions:	10 staff	PO: Kevin Lonergan
2016 Project Office & Commemorations:	7 staff	PO: Sinéad Copeland
Culture Ireland, International & Education:	8 staff	PO: Christine Sisk

The Arts Division accounts for 60% of the Department's spending and is responsible for overseeing much of the State's cultural services, as well as leading on the commemorative programmes for the Decade of Centenaries. It has a current programme budget in 2016 of €131.7m and a capital budget of €62.8m (inclusive of €6.1m carried over from 2015). These cultural services (and therefore funding) are, in the main, delivered through agencies and cultural institutions, including the Arts Council (€60m current funding), the Irish Film Board (€11m capital) and other national cultural institutions².

These figures include a significant non-recurring budget of €48.6m (€17.9m current and €30.7m capital), which has been allocated to the Department in 2016 for the centenary commemoration of the Easter Rising.

Further detail is provided in the accompanying Finance Brief.

The Department also supports a range of smaller institutions and organisations with core funding (such as the Hunt Museum in Limerick, and Comhaltas Ceoltóirí

² The National Cultural Institutions (which are all supported by the Department) include the National Museum of Ireland, the National Gallery of Ireland, the National Library of Ireland, the Irish Museum of Modern Art, the Chester Beatty Library, the National Concert Hall and the Crawford Gallery in Cork.

Éireann) and operates a number of schemes of support in the cultural sector in areas not generally supported by the Arts Council.

A significant part of the Division's work entails ongoing interaction with 7 cultural institutions and the 2 funding agencies. Issues mainly revolve around the provision of funding and staffing, the appointment of Boards and Directors, and the delivery of services in accordance with Service Level Agreements. The Department has advanced a number of legislative reform proposals in relation to the cultural institutions in recent years, with the National Concert Hall being placed on a statutory footing this year.

Considerable progress has been made over the past year in developing a first national cultural policy – Culture 2025. The process has been welcomed widely within the cultural sector. It provides a basis for a more inclusive approach to reviewing and reforming the State's cultural policy and services over the coming period.

The Department has the lead role in delivering and co-ordinating a commemorative Programme over the Decade of Centenaries (World War I through to Civil War). This involves considerable cross-Government working with guidance to date provided by an Expert Advisory Group of historians and an All-Party Oireachtas Group. The 1916 Commemoration (and particularly Easter Weekend) marks the centrepiece of this programme. The Somme commemorations in July this year will provide the other main focus during the year.

The Division is also delivering on a significant programme of capital works to mark the 1916 centenary, including a new visitor centre at the GPO and projects in the National Concert Hall and National Archives. In addition, a €30m+ project to redevelop the National Gallery is nearing completion, while a €10m project to carry out necessary work on the National Library is about to commence. The Department has also announced a €9m scheme over 3 years for the upgrading of arts and cultural centres.

It has a key role also in relation to heritage tourism and the presentation of the national parks, reserves, trails, and national monuments to domestic and international visitors. In its own right, it manages a number of prominent heritage properties and liaises closely with many of the national cultural institutions, in particular the National Museum, in regard to our natural, built and maritime heritage and activity tourism.

Two significant projects which are currently being managed are the preservation and restoration of the National Monument at 14-17 Moore Street and the restoration of the historic Killarney House and Gardens.

The Division also has oversight responsibility in relation to Ireland's UNESCO World Heritage sites - Skellig Michael and Brú na Bóinne. It also manages a number of ongoing EU law compliance cases under the aforementioned Directives, the most contentious of which is the case relating to peatlands conservation.

The Division is also responsible for land designation and the peatlands conservation policy.

The goals of the Department's Gaeltacht Division are to support the Irish language, to strengthen its use as the principal community language of the Gaeltacht, to assist the sustainable development of island communities and to promote North South co-operation, particularly in the context of the two North South Implementation Bodies it co-funds - An Foras Teanga (comprising Foras na Gaeilge and the Ulster-Scots Agency) and Waterways Ireland.. The Department funds and works closely with Údarás na Gaeltachta as the regional development agency for the Gaeltacht and Oifig an Choimisinéara Teanga, the independent statutory body that monitors the implementation of the Official Languages Act. The Department also facilitates the delivery of services to Island communities, both in the Gaeltacht and outside it.

Corporate Division - Key Priorities 2016

Overview

The Corporate Division comprises the Offices of the Minister, Ministers of State and the Secretary-General and three business units, each headed by a Principal Officer: Corporate Governance & Services; Finance, Evaluation & ICT; and HR.

There are 99 staff in the area, accounting for some 17% of the Department's staff total of 560. Just over two thirds of these – 70 people – are in the three business units:

Corporate Governance & Services:	26 staff	PO: John Healy
Finance, Evaluation & ICT:	24 staff	PO: Conor Falvey
HR:	20 staff	PO: Catriona Ryan

Corporate Division is responsible for the Department's Administration Budget – almost €36m in 2016, equivalent to 11% of the Department's gross voted allocation of €315m. 83% of the Department's administration costs, or just under €30m, are in respect of salaries, while the balance of €6m is for ICT, accommodation, post and telecommunications, travel & subsistence, training and other overheads.

Much of Corporate Division's work is providing supports that are essential for the day-to-day running of the Department. These supports facilitate the delivery of services to the public and other external stakeholders by staff in other areas of the Department. While the main objective in 2016 is to continue to provide those supports, each area also has a number of key objectives designed to deliver improvements in the Department's internal arrangements and advance whole-of-government initiatives in areas such as implementing the Civil Service Renewal Plan.

Any transfer of functions involving this Department that may be required by the Government will, of course, become the key priority activity for the Division. The other main issues for Corporate Division in 2016 are:

Corporate Governance and Services

Department of Arts, Heritage and the Gaeltacht

May 2016

OVERVIEW

2015 EXPENDITURE
2016 REVISED ESTIMATES

DEPARTMENT OF ARTS,
HERITAGE AND THE GAELTACHT

Functions and Role of Department

The Department of Arts, Heritage and the Gaeltacht was established on 1 June 2011 on foot of the reorganisation of Government Departments in March 2011, bringing together functions from the then Departments of Tourism, Culture and Sport, Environment, Heritage and Local Government, and Community, Equality and Gaeltacht Affairs.

The Department oversees, and has policy responsibility for, the conservation, preservation, protection, development and presentation of Ireland's heritage, culture and language.

In broad terms, the Department provides funding supports to

- sustain the arts, including the film and television sector, and our national cultural institutions;
- protect and preserve our natural and built heritage, and, in that context, to address relevant EU compliance requirements;
- promote the Irish language through supporting delivery of the goals in the 20-Year Strategy for the Irish Language 2010-2030;
- sustain employment and promote job creation in Gaeltacht regions;
- assist in maintaining sustainable communities on our offshore islands; and
- promote continued North-South co-operation across the sectoral areas falling within the Department's remit.

The Department's expenditure supports the intrinsic value of the cultural sectors within its ambit but is also important in helping to sustain and grow cultural tourism as one of the most important elements of Ireland's tourism product. In that context, it helps contribute to our economic recovery and to enhancing our national reputation.

Funding (Vote 33)

The Minister for Arts, Heritage and the Gaeltacht is responsible for Vote 33 ARTS, HERITAGE AND THE GAELTACHT. There are approximately 40 individual Votes which make up the Estimates for Public Services published on Budget Day. The Estimates include high level detail by Government Departments and certain agencies and set out the amounts planned to be spent in each Vote in the next year with a comparison to the current year.

Two months later the Revised Estimates for Public Services (REV) is published which is a more detailed version of the Estimates. It includes more information on the spending within individual programmes and a comparison with the projected level of spending of the current year (i.e. as it's published in December before the end of the year, the final actual amount spent is still slightly uncertain). The Revised Estimates also include some output, context and impact indicators which give details on what the expenditure is going on, and some indication of the possible impact the expenditure is having.

The 2016 allocations for the Department were published on 17 December 2015 as part of the Revised Estimates for Public Services (REV). The Department's Vote (Vote 33) now encompasses expenditure in respect of the National Gallery of Ireland which previously held its own Vote (Vote 34).

The figures, broken down by programme area are as follows:

Programme Area	Current €000	Capital €000	Total €000
ARTS, CULTURE AND FILM	131,747	56,730	188,477
HERITAGE	35,419	8,604	44,023
IRISH LANGUAGE, GAELTACHT AND ISLANDS	34,339	10,867	45,206
NORTH-SOUTH CO-OPERATION	34,925	2,799	37,724
TOTAL	236,430	79,000	315,430

In addition a sum of €6,158,000 was carried over from 2015 in respect of unspent capital monies (deferred surrender / capital carryover).

This means that the total funding available to the Department in 2016 is €321,588,00 comprised of €236,430,000 in Current and €85,158,000 in Capital.

The 2016 Estimates were not considered by the relevant Select Committees or agreed by the Dáil before the Dáil was dissolved on 3 February 2016. The Minister will therefore be required in due course, to attend with officials, before the Select Committee on a date scheduled by the Clerk of the Committee in consultation with the Minister's Office.

Notwithstanding the absence of Dáil approval of the Estimates, spending can continue and is continuing in 2016 based on Sections 2 and 3 of the Central Fund (Permanent Provisions) Act, 1965 which allows spending up to four-fifths of the amount appropriated in the previous year's Appropriation Act or the current year's REV allocation, whichever is the lower.

Key Challenges Facing the Department

The significant fiscal challenges that faced the country in recent times resulted in a significant curtailment of the level of resources available to fund the Department's programme areas.

Notwithstanding this, the Department has made, and continues to make, every effort to ensure that the delivery of its key services was not and is not compromised.

The challenge ahead is how best to balance the ongoing maintenance of the Department's core functions and the range of services provided to the public, with the various pressures on expenditure and resources. In that context, the Department will continue to place particular emphasis on:

- supporting jobs to the greatest extent possible - in the audio-visual and wider arts sectors and in the Gaeltacht;
- investment in the culture and heritage sectors that will also support cultural tourism as one of the most important elements of Ireland's tourism product;
- compliance with the EU Birds and Habitats Directives, including investment in alternative solutions for those affected by the cessation of turf cutting in raised bog SACs; and
- supporting the protection of the built heritage, the strategic development of our National Parks and the development of our navigable waterways.

There will undoubtedly be a number of significant sectoral challenges over the coming period, including in the following areas:

Commemorations

- continued roll out and delivery of the Ireland 2016 Centenary Programme, including the flagship capital commemorations projects;
- seeking to ensure that the significant positive engagement and interest generated to date is sustained throughout the year.

Arts, Culture and Film

- ensuring the optimal use of the resources allocated for artistic, film and cultural endeavours and the preservation, conservation and display of the movable national heritage, while continuing to give priority to maximising the potential in the arts, cultural and creative industries to create growth and jobs; and
- facilitating synergies between the arts and cultural sector and other sectoral areas, most notably in the area of tourism product development and cultural tourism.

Heritage

- continuing to promote Ireland's built and natural heritage resource as a key national asset, which is fundamental to our nation's well-being and attractiveness as a country; and

- working effectively with all the partners who share ownership and responsibility for protecting the built and natural heritage to continue to promote its evolution as a vehicle for achieving broader ends, including urban and rural revitalisation, job creation, cultural stewardship, business incubation and sustainable tourism.

Irish Language, Gaeltacht and Islands

- to implement the strategic priorities for the coming five year period identified from the open policy debate held last year on the 20-Year Strategy for the Irish Language; and
- continuing to support the provision of transport services to the offshore islands within available resources.

North-South Co-operation

- continuing to support, within available resources, the North-South Ministerial Council in its Language and Waterways sectors, given the Department's role in co-funding and supporting the two North South implementation bodies under our remit; and
- delivering on the commitment to exploring ways of increasing the level of North/South co-operation across the full range of activities for which the Department has responsibility and to broadening contact with relevant organisations and groups in Northern Ireland.

The majority of administrative staff are based at the Department's offices in Dublin, Killarney, Na Forbacha, Co Galway, and Wexford, with regional and field staff (mainly at professional, technical and industrial grades) dispersed across the country. Since the Department was formed in June 2011, staffing levels have reduced from 640 to 551 whole-time equivalents at end-2015.

Since 2011, the Department has experienced significant pressures on its pay allocations, due to baseline issues dating from the time of its establishment. Given the pressures on overall Departmental allocations, the Department has addressed the pay issue by careful management of its non-pay administration provisions, so as to ensure that it had sufficient resources available to it each year to meet its liabilities on the pay front. These arrangements have been sanctioned annually by the Department of Public Expenditure and Reform.
